WORK FROM HOME 1 DAY/WEEK, EARN $70,000/YEAR, $195,000 SALE PRICE

This long established work from home business is managed by the current owner working less than one day a week. The business's one client, a large, national retail outlet, sends through a weekly order which requires processing, picking, packing and couriering to one national distribution centre, with monthly invoicing the only other admin task.

The business has a longstanding relationship with a US supplier and maintains steady stock levels which can be air freighted or sea freighted for less cost.

The products are in regular, often daily use with a strong weighting to a female audience. Costs can be minimised if a garage or appropriate space is available to hold the stock so that no rent is required.

Growth potential is significant through either expansion of the product range or entry into other retail outlets.

This is an ideal supplement to an existing job or a great opportunity for someone who has domestic duties which keeps them at home.
